Idaho Will Advocate Reciprocity in Trade

Good Will Tour of 90 National President American Legion Auxiliary Coming

Sacramento, May 23.—Complimenting the Sacramento Region Citizens Council upon their efforts to develop new fields for western products, Governor Baldrige of Idaho emphasized the necessity of reciprocity in trade at the first stop in California of the Idaho good will tour.

Governor Baldrige was accompanied by ninety prominent state and city officials of Idaho as well as farm and civic leaders. The tour will include many California cities before the delegation returns to Idaho from Los Angeles.

Poppy Day Coming

Saturday, May 24th, will be "poppy day" for the American Legion Auxiliary in California. The wearing of the poppy has double significance. The wearer not only honors the dead, but in buying the poppy contributes to the welfare of the disabled and the families of the dead and disabled. The poppies are made by disabled veterans.

Police Inspection 100 Per Cent

The annual inspection of Richmond's police force took place last Saturday at Roosevelt Junior high school grounds under direction of Chief of Police Dan Cox, who put the city's 22 patrolmen thru the evolutions required and which were reviewed by the city officials and the public in attendance.

Richmond's police force, though not large, is composed of exceptionally well selected men, which reflects much credit on Chief Cox as a judge of the essentials required in protecting the public and in giving Richmond a fine looking bunch of men.

Richmond is credited with having the best police and fire protection of any city in the state, population considered.

Long Distance Cable to L. A.

San Francisco, May 23.—September 1st will see the completion of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s new $10,000,000 long distance cable between this city and Los Angeles. The cable will be 420 miles in length, much of it underground. It will be one of the longest links in the $30,000,000 Canada to Mexico cable planned by the company.

Can't Get Rid of the Germ

A Richmond man has motored back to his old home state of Ohio four times in the past five years, each time declaring he would never return to the coast. A few days ago he returned again with the wife and children, this time to stay forever.

It may transpire that the recent demonstration of those U. S. army bombing planes that cut capers and showed us how easy they could shut off the wind of those below, had some significance. It about proves that the air fighters have the winning hand—all aces.

The Richmond Terminal, this newspaper, will celebrate its 27th birthday next month.

The Fourth of July falls on Fri-

San Francisco, May 30.—Mrs. Mary Virginia Macrae of Council Bluffs, Iowa, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, will pay a visit to the California units of her organization next week. The State officials of the auxiliary and kindred organizations of the American Legion will entertain Mrs. Macrae during her stay in bay district.

Arriving at San Diego she will visit the government hospital and marine base, the U. S. Veteran's Hospital at San Fernando, and then on to Santa Barbara for a brief stop. May 30th she will be the principal speaker at Livermore government hospital. A tour of Mare Island navy yard and a luncheon at Vallejo are on the schedule for Saturday, May 31. Marie Dunklee will be the hostess of that section.

The national president of the American Legion Auxiliary is the wife of Dr. Donald Macrae, distinguished surgeon, a medical officer in the Spanish-American war and commanding officer of Mobile Hospital No. 1 in A. E. F. during the world war.

A number of former residents of Council Bluffs, home of the Macraes, reside here around S. F. Bay, who will be glad to meet this notable woman, a number of whom remember the three generations of Dr. Macrae, the original Don an early day mayor of Council Bluffs in the '80's.

Are You Insured? Better Safety First

Some startling facts on the average chances for accidents of the individual motorists are brought out in figures reported to the California Automobile association.

Based upon the 1929 California record, the figures show that one in every 866 cars will kill a person a year. One in every 25 cars will injure a person during a year. One in every 2½ cars will be damaged in an accident of some kind in a year.

Unless the individual motorist is more careful or more fortunate than the average person, his car will be involved in a personal injury accident of some kind once in every 150,000 miles of travel, based on a conservative estimate of 6000 miles travel per year.

How They Stand

The following is the revised to date census figures for the bay cities:

	1920	1930
San Francisco	505,676	625,000
Oakland	216,261	284,213
Alameda	28,806	34,847
Berkeley	56,036	82,000
Richmond	16,843	20,026
Piedmont	4,282	9,302
Albany	2,462	8,593
El Cerrito	1,505	3,848
Emeryville	2,390	2,333
San Leandro	5,703	11,315

Fred Parr, of the Parr Terminal corporation, is attending the Foreign Trades Council at Los Angeles. He is one of the 200 delegates from San Francisco.

What we have often wondered is what the politicians do when they take a day off.

Three days whoopee. The new planet is not visible.

These Ladies Rule the Town of Yellville

Two men who, it is reported, would not get themselves jobs, were ordered out of town by this all-female government of the little Ozark mountain town of Yellville, Ark. The ladies, whose feminine government is the only one of its kind in Arkansas, are: back row, left to right, Mrs. Alma Berry, Mrs. A. A. Thompson, Mrs. Abbie Cowdrey, Mrs. M. O. Hutchinson, and Mrs. H. R. Record, all aldermen; front row, left to right, Miss O'Beta Carson, treasurer; Mrs. Virginia L. Walto, mayor, and Mrs. Lena Mowlin, recorder.

General Comment

A word of praise should not always accompany the flowers and silver handles. Spill a little of that adulation before the "victim" extends his last farewell.

Radios are almost necessary now, especially for announcing the ball games. We cannot wait for the printed score—we must have it right off the bat. But the radio next door which is delivering the Sunday sermon gets fairs, base hits, and much loud and vociferous shouting mixed up with the minister's efforts to entertain.

Announcing his opinion on radio spilling a local bay city broadcaster said: "I like my present job better than any other job I ever had before in my life—I can talk all I please and get paid for it and no body can talk back to me."

Yes, there's a difference between radio advertising and newspaper advertising. The adv over the air goes in one ear and out the other. The printed word is permanent—it is there for reference, a fixed and recorded register.

The latest telephone census shows a total of 32,712,294 telephones in the entire world January 1, 1929. Of these 19,341,295, or 59 per cent, were in the United States.

RADIO ENGINEER

Dr. C. B. Joffie, former alternate chief of the radio laboratory of the United States bureau of standards, has been appointed chief engineer of the federal radio commission. Doctor Joffie is native of West Virginia and has been associated with the bureau of standards for about ten years, being a specialist in radio tube research. More recently he has assisted in the development of aircraft radio beacon.

"I Saw It In THE TERMINAL"

San Francisco's Clumsy Charter, Like Richmond's, Also Needs Remodeling

Wednesday's Chronicle carries a half page editorial criticizing San Francisco's antiquated and near obsolete charter, a copy of which should be mailed to Richmond's city council and chamber of commerce.

It seems that the present census report for San Francisco, as compared with Los Angeles and other wideawake cities, has thrown a scare into the apathetic and indifferent, and that a new form of government must be forthcoming if San Francisco would emerge from her Rip-Van Winkle.

San Francisco, like Richmond, is in need of a more efficient form of government if she would go ahead.

The present charter of San Francisco, says the Chronicle, is a "hodge podge of left overs, a thing of confusion and conflict. Responsibility is scattered, authority is elusive. Sincere public servants find their hands tied, while inefficient officials are invited to pass the buck."

"An unwieldy board of 18 supervisors struggle ponderously with simple questions wound up with oratory and red tape."

It looks like the "awakening" was about to take place on the west side of the bay.

RANDOM COMMENT

There is nothing more sensible or commendable than preparing for the proverbial "rainy day," or for the time "when one may need a friend," or a substantial nest egg. But these daylight savers seem to be trying to accumulate something they do not know what to do with it when they get it.

Motor vehicle accidents result in an annual economic loss in this state of $70,000,000, an amount sufficient to cover an annual corporation payroll of 40,000 employees. This is the monetary loss to the state estimated after a thorough and detailed check from all possible sources and submitted in a report at the recent convention of the California committee on public safety.

HIGH HAT SKIPPER

In accordance with traditional custom, Capt. James Jack of the Donaldson line freighter Salacia received a shiny top hat and a gold-headed cane in recognition of his ship being the first to enter the port of Quebec this season. The presentation was made by officials of the Quebec harbor commission. The skipper appears to be delighted with his land honors, even though the trappings do not harmonize too well with his seagoing uniform.

Why Make Richmond Butt For Jokes by Broadcasting Phoney Publicity?

By Lee D. Windrem

Mr. Sanford is to be congratulated on his speech over the radio last Saturday night on Richmond; its past and future. It would be difficult to equal the optimism evidenced in this talk. It is easy for us now to understand how Mr. Sanford can believe that Jonah swallowed the whale, and that Samson slew tens of thousands with the jawbone of an ass. We would like to borrow Samson and his jawbone for a time.

According to his views in this talk there is nothing the matter with Richmond. She is 100% OK. He is cheerfully blind to the hundreds of vacant homes, the many business houses, unemployment, poverty, hopelessness and misery existing here; because, you see, it is announced that Mr. Parr is on another of his trips east, and it is customary on these occasions for the ringmaster to crack his whip for more whoopee stuff and the c. of c. complaisantly rear up on their hind legs and begin to prophesy great things for the future. You will please note that it is always "the future." You will also note that we are always advised that "no detailed statement of the new industries can be given out for obvious reasons."

If we were permitted to guess the obvious reasons we should probably say that this was a figment of the brain of Mr. Parr and swallowed whole by the board of directors. It is certainly a study in psychology to see these parties take this bunk after three and more years of the medicine with out any improvement whatever.

This may be good medicine for them, but we have long considered it an insult to our intelligence to try to dose us with it.

We quote from Mr. Sanford's speech:

"Negotiations are underway for other large industries to locate in Richmond, details of which cannot at present be disclosed. These developments make Richmond people highly optimistic as to the immediate future."

You see, gentlemen, all the tricks are out of the bag and on the table; you may examine the legerdemain artist and you will find everything fair and above board. But just when we begin to work up a large obese optimism as suggested by the actor—and start banging things around in our excitement and enthusiasm—some killjoy reminds us that this same language has been used for more than three years to soothe our troubled spirits, and then our optimism passes and we devote our time to reading the lamentations of Job to comfort us.

The speaker, much to our joy, reminds us that we have the S. O. Co., Santa Fe shops, Pullman car shops, Certainteed plant, still with us. He also mentions the Richmond Standard Sanitary plant; he is probably unaware that this plant removed elsewhere about two years ago, but it would take a member of the board of directors of the c. of c. that long to discover a real fact.

CLIPPED PARAGRAPHS

If you are egotistical, one of the best ways to cure yourself is to go out and try to borrow money without security.

This piano is said to be fighting for its life; the one next door is certainly taking some heavy blows.

After this speech we are no longer in doubt about who framed that splendid semi-annual report of the accomplishments of the c. of c. during the first half of last year. It is such a masterly effort to make something out of nothing.

The following is a copy of the text matter contained in the chamber of commerce advertising which is being published in the local dailies of Richmond in half-page installments and broadcasted over the country. The following is a sample of one of these misleading and visionary productions that attract (?) industries:

The Year Is Half Gone!

With a little more than one-half the year behind us, the chamber of commerce passes to look at the past and future.

First—A membership campaign has been held which added nearly two score new members to the rolls.

Second—A long series of constructive meetings were held between chamber of commerce leaders, city officials and representatives of the shipping, cement, manufacturers and others, through which Richmond was made a port of call for steamers and arrangements were made for routing large quantities of cargo through this port.

Third—Work progressed steadily on the new Parr-Richmond facility on the inner harbor, until now that the end is in sight and we know this great new building will be ready for occupancy in August.

Fourth—Practically every committee in the chamber has been active in the study of the problems allotted to it, and attendance at the meetings of the directors continues close to the 100 per cent mark.

Such are a few high lights of the past six months. Let us judge the next half year by the one just closing and continue our optimistic viewpoint about our city and the part the chamber of commerce is playing in its upbuilding.

RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Isn't the fine Italian hand of the speaker quite apparent in this report? We think so.

It might be well for the gentlemen who are responsible for this balderdash and humbug to be advised that the people are fully aware of the reasons for putting this chaff before them, and that they have about reached the limit of their patience at the constant insult to their intelligence.

We have been fed up on such stuff for more than three years now—we read of the "mysterious little black bag, the wise and knowing smiles that adorned the visages of Messrs. Parr and Scott, the constant promises that, in the near FUTURE we would be flooded with industries—that we have no confidence whatever in those who have been responsible for this bunk.

We demand that the C. of C. call a meeting of twenty or more reputable business and professional men of this city and place their data before them so that they may make a report to the people of what can actually or reasonably be expected—not in the distant FUTURE, but very, very soon. We also demand that the C. of C. answer the statements made that the present city government is extravagant, and that a new City Charter is necessary; and if they can show this is not necessary the public is entitled to know why.

Give us facts and tie the bunk outside.

THE TERMINAL can print it for you. Call up Richmond 121.

CALIFORNIA NEWS REVIEW

Sanger's bond issue to purchase a municipal airport at a cost of $25,000 has been defeated by about fifty votes. A franchise to distribute natural gas in the city of Sonoma has been granted by the City Council to the West Coast Gas and Fuel Company of San Francisco, following acceptance of their bid of $180. No competitive bids were received.

Fresno has been selected as the city for the 1930 Armistice celebration by the Fresno County American Legion and Auxiliary Council. The celebration was held in Sanger last year.

The destroyers Wicks, Buchanan, Percival and Somers arrived at the Mare Island navy yards from San Diego. The Wicks and Buchanan are to be recommissioned for active service. The others are to be scrapped.

New American liners, representing an investment in excess of $75,000,000, will be operating from the port of San Francisco within three years. Nineteen fast super liners are included in the list of ships now planned or building for the service from that port. Many of them will fulfill mail contracts recently awarded by the government.

F. E. Quail, assistant maintenance engineer of the State Highway Commission has issued a statement at Merced declaring the roads of Merced County in exceptionally good conditions as compared with other parts of California. The statement followed a detail inspection of all highways in that section.

Rebuilding of the J. R. Garrett Company warehouse into stores was announced at Marysville by E. B. Wilcox, president.

Permit for the construction of a new $375,000 depot at B street in San Rafael had been issued to the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Company. The new station is for the San Rafael-Sausalito interurban electric line.

Arrangements are being made at Red Bluff to entertain 250 members of the women's auxiliary of the American Legion, June 4, when the annual convention of Area No. 1 will be held there. Delegates are expected from as far south as Vallejo and from as far north as the Oregon line.

The Biggs City Council has gone on record as favoring installation of a new steel water tank to furnish water for that city. The tank would replace the present wooden tank, declared by engineers to be unsafe.

Construction of highways in the national forest areas of the West will be almost doubled as a result of the action of Congress in increasing the annual appropriation for forest roads from $7,500,000 to $12,500,000. With its eighteen national forests, California will benefit particularly by this increase in funds, as the forest area roads will be allotted an additional $800,000 a year, increasing this State's share to $1,900,000 annually. The increased amount is in line with the policy of making appropriation for forest roads equivalent to 10 per cent of the total Federal-aid appropriation, which was recently raised to $125,000,000 annually. This measure represents a successful climax to a long campaign on the part of organized motorists to secure greater attention to the road-building needs of the West.

Immediate construction of a new border station at Fort Yuma for state motor vehicles and agricultural inspectors was assured when bids for the structure were opened by the State Department of Architecture at Sacramento. The Holland Construction Company of San Diego was low bidder at $19,374. A. R. McMurray of Los Angeles submitted the lowest bid for construction of physicians' residences at Pacific Colony, Spadra, and Patton State Hospital.

Constitutionality of the state law which prohibits possession of salmon during the closed season is attacked in federal court in a supplemental complaint filed before Federal Judge Frank H. Kerrigan. The supplemental complaint was filed by permission of the court and is expected to result in a hearing of the question by a circuit judge and two district judges as required of constitutional questions. It was filed by Attorney Marshall B. Woodworth, attorney for members of the Noyo Fish Association and Sausalito Fish Association. It is contended that the law is unconstitutional because it prohibits possession of salmon caught outside the three-mile limit during the closed season, but admits from other states salmon that has been caught in the same manner. Judge Kerrigan previously ruled in favor of Fish and Game Commission because the question had not been properly raised.

Back in 1924 Phil Simpson, whereabouts unknown, carved his name and the year on the back of a turtle. Frank Dayton, oil truck driver, recently found the turtle ambling down the middle of the Pacific highway, near Corning.

California's like their reading early and often. With 176 daily newspapers now being printed in the State, having an estimated circulation of 2,797,000. Figures released by the research department of the California State Chamber of Commerce show that newspaper readers have increased 14 per cent during 1929.

A $10,000 office and warehouse building will be built at Tulare by the Standard Brands Company of California, according to a recent announcement. The building will be made San Joaquin Valley headquarters of the concern.

M. J. Reynolds, Tipton construction employee, defeated his fellow worker, Tony MacIntyre, in Tulare County's longest pushmobile contest when he negotiated the twenty miles between Porterville and Tipton in two hours and five minutes. Pushmobiles used were mounted on roller skates and were foot-propelled.

County supervisors have ordered a technical survey of a proposed 11-mile modern highway, between Grass Valley and Colfax, preparatory to advertising for bids this summer. The survey was ordered on request of the Grass Valley Lions Club. Chicago Park and Peardale land owners have approved the proposed road, which will cut through those sections.

Hooligan, winner of the 1929 jumping frog contest at Angels Camp, is missing. J. B. Pecchinino, owner of Hooligan, is mightily peeved and makes no bones about the extreme probability that Hooligan, together another big frog, was stolen by somebody. Hooligan and the other missing frog were entered in the 1930 jumping frog contest to be held in Angels Camp next month. Pecchinino notified Sheriff C. R. Dorroh. The sheriff and a posse of deputies began a search for the missing amphibians.

Married women teaching in Gridley elementary schools will lose their positions at the end of the present school year, the board of trustees have decided. The board, believing that the public disapproves of hiring married women as teachers, made an order relieving all such women of jobs excepting those who have tenure. They may be re-employed but only on a temporary basis.

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors have accepted the first deed for construction of the new Salinas-Watsonville highway. The deed was from H. P. Garin and Elsie Garin and involved property in the Graves district. Only few deeds will be necessary to acquire property for the highway, it was said. Bids for the road construction work will be called before the end of the month, according to County Engineer Howard F. Cozzens.

Delegations from Klamath, Jackson and Josephine counties in Oregon and Siskiyou and Del Norte counties in California heard William P. Ellis, Grants Pass, Ore., attorney, present Crescent City as the government's best opportunity in the country for a profitable harbor investment. Ellis' glowing description was made at Crescent City before Major E. H. Ropes, district engineer of the United States army engineer's corps at the opening of the Crescent City harbor hearing. Representatives of inland cities and chambers of commerce backed up Ellis' plea with testimony and requests that the harbor be completed by federal appropriation and that a water outlet be given what Ellis described as "the most remote rich producing area in the United States," from the standpoint of railroad freight rates to consuming centers. A physical survey of the harbor, which, together with the hearing, was requested by the Senate committee, is now being made under the direction of army engineers. An economic survey of potential port tonnage also is being made.

Efforts of the Redwood Empire Association's nine counties highway committee to eliminate many dangerous curves near Sausalito were brought close to fruition when Bert B. Meek, state director of public works, announced plans for a new straight line route from Sausalito to Alto. This will link with the new Alto-San Rafael alignment of the Redwood highway at Alto, giving a straight line artery from Sausalito to San Rafael. The new highway link is designed to be ultimately extended to the bridgehead of the projected Golden Gate span. The new state highway route will cross a portion of Sillio Island and the upper reaches of Richardson's Bay by causeway. At Manzanita, an overpass will span the railroad right of way, the tracks of which it will parallel into Sausalito.

Inauguration of a new construction program for educational institutions had been announced at Sacramento by Verling Kersey, director of education. Proposed new construction and improvements will aggregate an expenditure of more than $1,500,000. This program includes: Plans under way for the first unit of a complete reconstruction scheme at the California School for the Deaf at Berkeley, to cost $300,000. New science unit, Santa Barbara State Teachers' College, $120,000. Men's gymnasium, San Jose State Teachers' College, $130,000. Administration, science and library units, San Jose State Teachers' College, $735,000. Dormitory, California Polytechnic School, San Luis Obispo, $140,000.

Howard F. Manchester, city radio technician by appointment of the Merced Radio Club, appeared before city councilmen with a request that an ordinance be passed making it illegal to have electrical apparatus producing radio interference. The Radio Club is composed of representatives of service and civic societies of Merced, to finance work of reducing interference.

Transfer of the Weaverville Electric Company to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is expected this month, according to J. R. Blair, who announced the sale at Weaverville.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

"Once there was an old man, all clothed in leather," was quite a favorite Mother Goose line in Dame Fashion's childhood—by the way, that old man was a pretty good politician, for you may remember how it ends—"He began to compliment, and I began to grin; 'How do you do, and how do you do, and how do you do again?'"

Mother Goose was far-sighted, for though the genuine pioneers did wear clothes of skins, in the later days there was nothing of leather except shoes and here or there a belt or expensive imported gloves. But the cycles of fashion change. Aviation has brought forward soft doekin leather for women's garments, and now it would not be at all impossible for either man or woman to walk abroad, "all clothed in leather."

Leather has a pleasant fashion, too, of appearing where you least expect it. Ponies and horses have had their bridles of leather since the days of Gulland, but it is the newest of the new to see the pretty leather necklaces, planned for costume jewelry for sports or street costumes. They are cleverly combined with beads, somewhat as the Indians used to do with theirs.

This year the glove designers have planned as though inspired by the very goddess of beauty. With the coming of short sleeves, there is the prospect that even longer and more abundant gloves will be worn, but unless for occasions of extreme formality, the length of glove wrists will not be especially notable.

Pull-on gloves are just as convenient as their name sounds, and where there is perhaps one button and loop, that button is of reasonable size, so that it does not have to be sought with a microscope. Like the wee glove buttons of the grandmothers. Holding beautiful soft white doekin gloves in hand, and thinking with a bit of trepidation of the flakes of black soot or other kinds of smudges which afflict these United States, there came the assurance, "But, Dame Fashion, they will wash like a plate, and you can use hot water!"

The dotted line seems to be about as important an element of summer silk and cotton fabrics this year as it is in business contracts. The pin dots were the first to enter the scene, but indications are that, like good children, they will grow steadily in size, so that the dot of anyone's preference may be worn.

Dame Fashion, with her great personal pleasure in red garments, was quite thrilled at hearing a description of the embarkation of passengers from a notable steamship, whose crossing had been an international event. After speaking in a general manner of the smart passengers descending the gang plank, it was especially noted that they had seemed to honor the occasion by donning scarlet, depending to rich wine tones. Or, at least, that seemed to be the ruling color note, with of course plenty of vivid greens, light blue, lavender and rich browns.

It was almost possible for Dame Fashion to get a whiff of the salt breeze blowing freshly over the dock, for even in this summer weather, the description given her said that at least three of these fortunate passengers—two wearing red ensembles and one, a green one—all with lines of flat black fur, also had put on black sweaters!

Chiffon and Lace for Graduation Week Duds

Chiffon and lace are formal enough and not too formal for the festivities of graduation week. Any son or daughter could be proud of a mother in chiffon and lace cut on a simple version of the new mode, says the Woman's Home Companion. A high-placed belt gives to the skirt long and becoming lines, softened by a bloused waist. The flattering lace jacket makes the dress into a conservative afternoon frock. Without the jacket and with a necking cut low at back it is a perfect dance frock.

Glove Mode Is Varied; 24-Button Model Used

The glove that the modish lady throws into the arena of fashion this spring, what are its special attributes? How does it differ from the glove of a year ago? In the first place it has been feminized just as everything in the world of clothes has felt the influence of a mode that softens and flatters. It has become widely diversified. Fancy has run its merry course with the cuff styles, fitting them to the natural contour of the arm, slashing them for har monizing inserts, ruffling them in gay ripples over the hand, notes a fashion authority in the Kansas City Star.

Sleeves and the caprices of sleeves have had a very definite effect on gloves and glove fashions. Since gloves are accepted in every conceivable length gloves have been hard put to it to keep up with them. Long gloves for evening and day wear have aided months ago from that capital of fashion, Paris, have been accepted wholeheartedly and with charming results. Black gloves for the bright or colored evening gown and white for the pastels, that is the rule for evening.

And a lace mitt? A year ago lace mitts in smart society would have indicated but one thing—a costume ball was in progress with some winsome lass masquerading in the mode of a hundred years ago. But 1930 has done wifely things with the lace mitt and fitted them into a modern scheme.

Daytime gloves are simple. In addition to the classic suede slip-on—which has taken the hint from a lengthened mode and become slightly longer—there are many place kid gauntlets, cut with a slight flare which may be turned back to show a contrasting lining. White kid with chain embroidery effects in black and white is a favored glove. Stitched patterns are important as always, the diamond motif being much in demand.

Buttons appear to have taken the place of snap or other fastenings on gloves, and gloves in 1, 2, 3, 5 and 6 and 10, even 24-button lengths are seen.

Patent Leather Belts, Bags, Slippers, Smart

There is a patent on accessory smartness this spring, declares a fashion writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The shining importance of patent leather is seen in the number of bags and slippers and belts it is developing. With the tailleur or ensemble there is really nothing smarter and more distinguished than the patent leather accompaniment.

Of course the prevalence of black and black and white in costumes of all types, and the popularity of shiny straps for hats accounts for the current vogue of patent leather. This was illustrated strikingly by a fashionably dressed woman wearing a coat of dull finished soft black wool cut with a deep capulet collar banded in lustrous black kyalak.

She wore a shiny pannalake hat with the brim flaring back from her face and carried on her black gloved hand a neat strapped bag of patent leather. Her pumps were of patent leather finished with a small leather bow at the instep.

A single white gardenia pinned to her shoulder indicated her delight in a beautiful spring day, and an intimate knowledge of late fashion details.

Would you like to try this doctor's laxative free of charge?

Every family has occasional need of a laxative, but it should be a family laxative. One that can't form a habit, but can be taken as often as needed. When breath is bad or tongue coated. Or appetite fails. Only a doctor knows the right ingredients. Dr. Caldwell discovered the correct combination years ago. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin combines harmless herbs and pure senna. It starts muscular action and soon corrects constipation. Gently, but surely, it relieves a bilious or sluggish condition. It is mild. Delicious. Effective. All druggists keep this famous prescription ready, in big bottles. Or write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle postpaid.

What this Doctor did for Humanity

As a young man the late Dr. R. V. Pierce, practiced medicine in Pennsylvania and was known far and near for his great success in alleviating disease. Finally he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and put up in ready-to-use form, his GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY, the well known tonic for the blood. This strength builder is made from a formula which Dr. Pierce found most effective when in private practice. It aids digestion, acts as a tonic and enriches the blood—clears away pimples and annoying eruptions and tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. All druggists. Tablets or liquid.

Hairless Rabbits

Russian hairless rabbits may yet appear on the scene, pursued by the already familiar—perhaps too familiar—Mexican hairless dogs. In the Journal of Heredity, D. A. Koslovsky of the State Institute for Experimental Veterinary Medicine of Russia tells of several hairless young rabbits that appeared among normal litters in hutches of his experimental animals. Some of them were partly clothed, having hair on their noses, ears, shoulder blades and other bits of their anatomy. So far, however, all the hairless young ones born have died without issue. The breed is therefore not established, and may be difficult to make a permanent one, even if it is considered desirable to do so.

FIND GOLGOTHA OF NOTED IRISH KING

Explorers Unearth Charnel House of Conaire.

Dublin.—The long-sought golgotha of King Conaire, one of the greatest Irish kings, who was killed 100 years before Christ, has been discovered only an hour's walk from the center of Dublin.

The discovery of the charnel house, where the king and his soldiers were massacred while at a great banquet, and where their bones, treasures and drinking goblets have lain undisturbed for 2,000 years, rivals the discovery of the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen in Egypt.

American capital will be heavily invested in bringing to light all the matters connected with the excavation to be shortly instituted, according to Assistant Keeper Grogan of the National Museum, who has been placed in charge of the work.

King Conaire, who attained his lofty role through his father and his own prowess, was killed by men whose own death sentence he had permitted, being opposed to capital punishment, history records.

The careers of Conaire and his father, King Edrisceal, circa 50 B. C., were intimately bound up with the fate of the Enean people, a Munster folk of militaristic character who had overrun the central plain of Ireland and extended their dominion to the north coast.

After being driven from Ulster by the Clan Rudraige, they still dominated Dal Riada and there were indications that even Ulster accepted their suzerainty.

King Edrisceal fell in battle against the south Leinstermen, and Conaire avenged his father, driving the foe back and annexing Osory.

As king, Conaire rounded up various bands of brigands who had been condemned to death by their own fathers and deported them to Ireland.

But the brigands returned to Ireland, and one night succeeded in waylaying King Conaire while he passed the night with his retinue of warriors at the great hotel Da Deurga at Glenn An Smoil, near Dublin. Here the king and his followers were massacred and the famous hotel Da Deurga, which once was a shrine, was burned. Until two months ago, its location remained a mystery even to scholars.

Instructor Has Spent

51 Years in One School

New Orleans, La.—Fifty-one years of teaching in one school have taught John Henry Schoenhart happiness in the school of life.

"God has been good to me," said the 72-year-old teacher in the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church parochial school here, who has lived through two yellow fever epidemics, many floods, and three wars.

"The even tenor of my life has been undisturbed. Of all my six children and many grandchildren, not one has died. There has been nothing spectacular in my life."

But as he reminisced a monumental goodness began to appear. It showed itself as the guiding principle of this soft voiced man with the faded blue eyes.

His parents, German immigrants, scraped up enough money to send him to school six years in Illinois. He began teaching in Indiana at 19, to repay them, and to give to others what he had learned himself.

For two years he taught there, then returned to New Orleans. He remembers the two great yellow fever epidemics and the Spanish-American war as incidents of unhappiness through which he passed unscathed.

As for the rest, the 51 years of teaching here are "nothing," he said.

"I give my pupils all I know," he explained. "When the end of the term comes I am very tired. But when August comes I am impatient to be in again. I am happy in my work."

RURAL GIRLS ARE GOOD HOUSEKEEPERS

Expert Finds Higher Living Standards on Farm.

Washington.—Girls on the more than 6,000,000 farm homes of the United States are showing a keen interest in the arts of home making and in many instances are telling their mothers how to obtain the best results from meager incomes, according to Miss Mary Rokahr, home management specialist of the Agriculture department.

Returning from a trip which carried her through most of the eastern and central states, where she talked with hundreds of farm housewives and their daughters, Miss Rokahr said the modern girl on the farm probably in many cases will be a better housewife than her mother.

"Everywhere I went I found the woman on the farm eager to learn how she might improve her home and obtain a better mode of living on the slight means at her disposal. Most of the girls, however, were better informed than their mothers and many showed marked talent in restoring furniture, making clothes, cooking, and the manifold tasks of a housewife."

Labor Saving Equipment

One of the first questions asked by most housewives she met, Miss Rokahr said, was what labor saving equipment she ought to purchase.

Proper methods of buying what the farm home needs was second in questions asked. Then the farm wife wanted to know how she most efficiently might divide the housework among the family.

"I do not wish to make odious comparisons," Miss Rokahr added, "but it is my impression that the average farm housewife has succeeded better than most city mothers in creating the true spirit of a home. It is on the farm, especially in the West, that we still find the pioneer spirit."

The average amount of cash received by the farmer for his salable products is $600 annually, Miss Rokahr said, while the average farm housewife desired at least $1,200 to properly maintain her home.

This would be the equivalent of about $1,800 in the city if allowance is made for the many farm products used by the family which must be bought in town.

Little Running Water

In the year since Miss Rokahr assumed her duties as an expert adviser to the farm housewives of the nation, 12 pamphlets have been published outlining model budgets for different states. Miss Rokahr emphasized that it is not possible to recommend a standard budget for the farm home because of varying crop, climate and other conditions in different sections.

It is planned to have a budget adapted to each section. The pamphlets reached into the rack for the magazine impressed the girl and she stopped to chat with him for a few minutes. These visits became regular affairs, and the acquaintance ripened until love and romance lightened the darkness of Al's life.

The girl was Miss Bernice Hahn and she will become Mrs. Randall H. Lindsey in a wedding ceremony performed in the home that Al has bought with his savings at No. 829 North Concord street.

Justice Burt L. Vix will perform the ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends of the couple, the selection falling on Judge Vix because of his long acquaintance with Lindsey in the American Legion post.

Al intends to keep on at the same old stand after his wedding. "You know, when a man gets married he just naturally has to keep on earning a living for his family," he declared.

OWNS LEASE FOR THOUSAND YEARS

Of No Value to Woman as It Runs to 2813.

Oshkosh, Wis.—Publicity about the maturing of some 600-year leases in England has brought to light here a 1,000-year lease drawn May 1, 1813, in England. It is owned by Mrs. Anne E. Reed of this city.

The instrument is an original and has been retained in Mrs. Reed's family since 1813. It was brought to America in 1880 when her grandfather migrated here.

Although the document was drawn for the simple purpose of leasing an apartment described as "Skinner's Tenement," with certain provisos, the script covers a piece of heavy parchment paper two feet by three.

The parties to it are John Perkins and William Prower, and Adam K. Baynes and William Symons. It says that Perkins, as owner of certain property in the community of Week St. Mary in the County of Cornwall, and Prower, his son-in-law, agree to construct a tenement for Baynes and Symons. Perkins is called a "yeoman," Prower a "carpenter" and Baynes a "gentleman."

Upon the deaths of the contracting parties, it says, heirs and assigns of Baynes and Symons and Perkins and Prower were to continue the contract for an uninterrupted period of 1,000 years.

A comparatively high fee was paid for the execution of the indenture, as is indicated by the £10 shilling stamp affixed by the government.

Although Mrs. Reed can trace her relationship to William Prower, little effort has been made by her to settle the long term contract. She believes the expense involved would more than offset profits which have accrued.

Blind Ex-Sailor Finds

Romance at News Stand

Glendale, Calif.—Totally blind for twelve years, Randall H. (Al) Lindsey has operated a magazine stand and newspaper agency at the corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway, this city's busiest corner. He started in his business eight years ago, four years after he had been blinded by an explosion on the U. S. S. Des Moines, on which he was serving as a sailor.

Ever since then the blind merchant has peddled his papers and magazines, able to go to the rack and pick out any publication his patrons desire without an instant's hesitation. He knows the voices of his customers and can call scores of them by name.

Several months ago a new voice fell on his ears when a girl asked him for a magazine. The voice with which he reached into the rack for the magazine impressed the girl and she stopped to chat with him for a few minutes. These visits became regular affairs, and the acquaintance ripened until love and romance lightened the darkness of Al's life.

The girl was Miss Bernice Hahn and she will become Mrs. Randall H. Lindsey in a wedding ceremony performed in the home that Al has bought with his savings at No. 829 North Concord street.

Justice Burt L. Vix will perform the ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends of the couple, the selection falling on Judge Vix because of his long acquaintance with Lindsey in the American Legion post.

Al intends to keep on at the same old stand after his wedding. "You know, when a man gets married he just naturally has to keep on earning a living for his family," he declared.

THE HENS

"My name is fine, it's Molly Wellington," said the hen.

"I suppose it's all right, as names go," said Miss Gray Hen.

"What do you mean by saying that my name is all right as names go?"

"That shows you are even more stupid than I thought."

"Why?" asked Miss Gray Hen.

"Because names don't go," said Molly Wellington.

"Names haven't legs and feet with which to walk and run and play."

"Names are quiet things—they are simply names."

"That's bright indeed," said Miss Gray Hen, smiling in her funny hen way, "but I never for a moment said that names were not names."

"Of course they are. I'm bright enough to know that."

"But you said that you supposed my name was all right as names went, and I am trying to correct you from saying anything so incorrect again."

"My dear Molly Wellington, you of the fine name," said Miss Gray Hen, "I didn't mean that names were running around in circles, or along driveways, or through fields."

"I meant that as a saying, I meant that your name was all right, but that I didn't think any name was so very important, nor so very wonderful."

"Oh, that is what you meant then," said Molly Wellington. "And you didn't mean that you thought names ran and walked?"

"Of course not," said Miss Gray Hen.

"Well, even if you don't think much of names, won't you admit that mine is very nice and fancy?"

"Oh, I suppose so," said Miss Gray Hen. "But Molly Wellington, even if names don't go running or walking around—and I have never thought that they did—still names do belong to people and the people run and walk around."

"You have a name and you don't stay so still, and so I was really brighter than I thought."

"Cackle, cackle, you're such a funny hen," said Molly Wellington.

"I'm a fine hen though," she continued. "I'm a champion egg layer. I've made records in the number of eggs I've laid."

"I lay very superior eggs. I'm a very fine and superior hen."

"Not only is my name interesting and unusual, but I've had my picture taken, and people have heard of me as a hen with a very fine record."

"The master is very proud of me, very proud indeed."

"Oh, all right," said Miss Gray Hen. "I suppose you want me to say that it's an honor to have you in the barnyard."

"All right, I'll say that."

"Thanks, thanks, cackle, cackle," said Molly Wellington.

"Cackle, cackle, you're welcome. You're welcome," said Miss Gray Hen.

First Get Them Jobs;
Then Send For Them

Invigilating homeseekers to California from the middle states and the east, is commendable and enterprising—if you can locate them on a job, so that after arriving they may have some means of subsistence.

Los Angeles is a striking example of the over-advertising system and its subsequent overcrowding of its streets with hundreds of jobless men. Families cannot survive long on climate.

Enticing homeseekers from the east should be preceded by establishing industries and means of support for those who may come. With these attractions, people will come of their own accord in the natural way of progress and prosperity.

High pressure advertising in eastern publications may allure, but allurements should have something substantial back of them.

The siren songs of the real estate operator, and the enthusiastic and well fed correspondent and rain bow chaser, does not always guarantee the "beans and bacon" for those who land among strangers with a limited bank roll.

A question not debatable is— which is the greatest nuisance, your neighbor's barking dog, or his asthmatic radio?
